

PINACL

INTRODUCING PINACL

THE WORLD'S MOST EXCLUSIVE SOURCE OF 1:1 SUPPORT FOR INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT SENIOR LEADERSHIP AND EXECUTIVES

Across the investment management sector, senior leaders and executives navigate increasingly complex and rapidly changing landscapes. At the highest levels, having access to the right expertise at critical moments can deliver invaluable perspectives that shape decisions, elevate performance, and drive strategic success.

Yet, the elite coaches, mentors, and advisors who work with the world's most accomplished leaders often operate in a discreet and confidential space, making them difficult to find. This gap can leave even the most capable leaders without the specialised guidance they need when it matters most.

Pinacl was created to bridge this gap.

Our network comprises advisors, coaches, and mentors who are exceptional leaders in their own right. They understand the nuances of your ambitions and challenges, offering tailored support to meet your needs. Whether you require specialised insights for a particular issue, ongoing guidance, or occasional support for pivotal moments, Pinacl ensures you are matched with the highest calibre of 1:1 resources available.

A PRECISION MATCHING SERVICE

As with all catalysts, chemistry is everything and Pinacl is committed to matching you with precisely the right 1:1 support. We will work closely with you to understand you and your organisation's specific needs and draw from our exceptional spectrum of talent to matchmake you with exactly the right individual.

Deploying our unrivalled depth of knowledge, gathered over decades supporting senior leaders across the investment and financial services landscape, we provide exclusive access to many of the world's most effective high-level coaches. We have carefully identified where their greatest skills lie and specialist areas where they will add most value whether you work in banking, investments, insurance or private equity.

Within investment management specifically, we provide specialised coaching that addresses the unique challenges of the sector. Our coaches work across the full spectrum of leadership roles— from C-suite executives shaping organisational strategy, to investment professionals making critical decisions under market pressure, to the key support functions that enable operational excellence. This comprehensive approach ensures that every level of your investment organisation can access coaching calibrated to their specific needs.

Pinacl coaches are divided into categories reflecting their experience, expertise and the development stage at which they will benefit you most. This enables us to pinpoint accurately which coach will work best for your needs and those of your business. We don't just put 'star' coaches together with leaders. We go to great lengths to understand your attitudes, your outlook, your leadership challenges and aspirations to get a true appreciation of who you are and precisely what support you need.

Only then, does the matching process begin. Having established a clear picture of your role in the financial world, we can select the type of coaching that will benefit you most and identify who best to deliver it. Someone whom you will respect and trust and whose insight and expertise will inspire and empower you. Depending on what your requirements are, the most effective coach might bring insights and learning from a sector other than finance. We will ensure that we optimise your use of their talents, identifying whether you need their support for a short time, over an extended period or open-ended.

Ultimately, our goal is to match your needs precisely throughout your career, providing you with exactly the support and guidance you need, just when you want it.

PINACL COACH CLASSIFICATION

1:1 coaches who are focused on, and have extensive experience with, executives at all levels – from C-suite to investment professionals and specialised support leaders. Many have worked at senior levels in investment management themselves, including trading floors, portfolio management, and risk functions, bringing firsthand understanding of the pressures and complexities of investment decision-making.

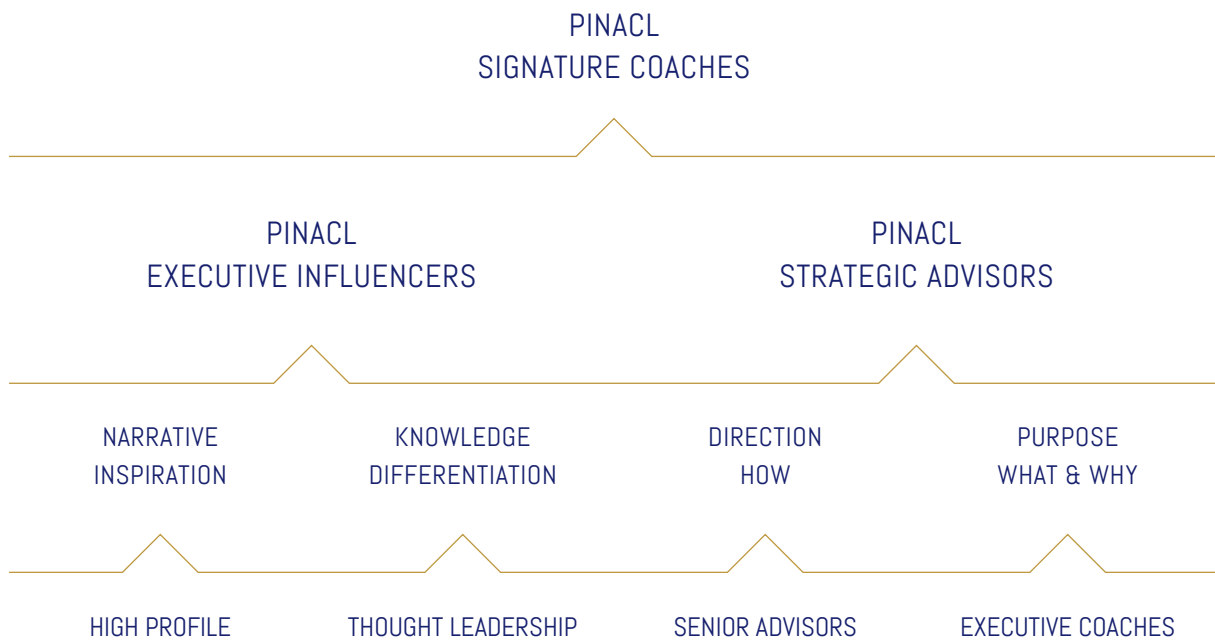

Typically, our coaches are drawn from one of four backgrounds, and bring with them specific attributes from their specialist fields:

BACKGROUND ATTRIBUTES	DESCRIPTION
HIGH PROFILE	Initially academics, elite sports people, celebrities, former CEOs and others in the media spotlight.
THOUGHT LEADERSHIP	Known for their ideas, insights and expertise in a particular area, field or topic and which have been disseminated via various means, e.g. books, keynotes, podcasts etc.
SENIOR ADVISORS AND MENTORS	Known for their ability to advise on various aspects of business – e.g. strategy, organisational change, equity, diversity and inclusion, and innovation.
EXECUTIVE COACHING	1:1 coaches who are focused on, and have extensive experience with, senior executives – often having worked at EXCO level in the financial world themselves.

DEVELOPMENT PATH

The individuals we choose to work with are carefully selected from a diverse range of careers and sectors. Through their work with senior decision-makers in investment management, they have refined their innate coaching capabilities – and PinACL supports them in maintaining continuous professional development in 1:1 coaching and mentoring. As their skills are enhanced over time, their abilities earn them increasingly high profiles across the executive coaching landscape.

PinACL works with these 1:1 coaches, mentors, and strategic advisors in three roles to ensure they deliver against your personal and business objectives. All of our coaches demonstrate the four attributes of thought leadership, advising, coaching and mentoring, and have established reputations as highly effective executive-level advisors to leaders in finance and investment.

OUR UNIQUE OFFERING

PinACL's unique new approach gives you access to an unrivalled spectrum of coaching at the very highest levels. We will match you with the world's most talented and inspiring individuals throughout the course of your senior management career. Their independent support will give you a unique blend of insight, vision and confidence and help you refine your leadership skills to empower you to reach the "top of your game" and, potentially, redefine what that is.

For investment management firms, our approach recognises the distinct challenges faced at different levels. Senior executives benefit from strategic vision and organisational leadership perspectives. Investment professionals gain enhanced decision quality and resilience during market volatility. Key support function leaders develop the operational excellence that enables peak performance across the organisation. This multi-level approach creates a comprehensive coaching ecosystem that enhances performance throughout your investment management firm.

To secure access to this exclusive world, share your details, and we'll be in touch to arrange an introductory conversation.

+44 (0) 203 137 2444

www.pinacl.com

LONDON | NEW YORK | SINGAPORE